Doing Divorce Differently

What is a Divorce Coach?

A Divorce can be an emotional 2nd job; added responsibility, additional finances, mountains of paperwork, this list goes on, plus you are thrust onto a rollercoaster ride of emotions for both you and your family members.

A Certified Divorce Coach assists clients during all or throughout different stages of the divorce process. Coaches and Clients work together to develop a plan and walk through the stages, aspects and specifics of a pending, current or past divorce.

Each Client/Coach relationship is different and unique; it's the Coaches responsibility to guide the Client through the process while achieving the best possible outcome as outlined by the client. Working together we will set objectives and milestones, setting you on the path to a successful future.

Divorce Coaching has the added value of reducing legal fees by assisting a client in organizing their thoughts and expectations. Coaching can allow a client to be more productive and organized with working with their attorney/mediator and more positive and less emotional with their soon-to-be-Ex; in turn setting themselves up for a different, yet successful new life.
